

“Stop Using Disability Simulations” Resources

November Champion/Monica Reha

Videos shown or referenced during the session

1. National Federation of the Blind actively calls for us not to use disability simulations: “NFB President Discusses Consequences of #HowEyeSeelt Blindfold Challenge”
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bQ8HS3YztSM>.
2. The Drive – Audio Described - Blind New World
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qu9klv_9swk
3. Stella Young’s TED talk “I’m not your inspiration, thank you very much.”
https://www.ted.com/talks/stella_young_i_m_not_your_inspiration_thank_you_very_much

Academic research and other articles about disability simulations

4. Nario-Redmond, M. R.; Gospodinov, D.; & Cobb, A. (2017, March 13). Crip for a day: The unintended negative consequences of disability simulations. Rehabilitation Psychology. Available online: <http://dx.doi.org/10.1037/rep0000127>
5. Silverman, A. M. (2017, June). Disability Simulations: What Does the Research Say? Braille Monitor. Available online: <https://nfb.org/images/nfb/publications/bm/bm17/bm1706/bm170602.htm>
6. Riccobono, M. (2017). Walking a mile: The possibilities and pitfalls of simulations. Braille Monitor. Available online: <https://nfb.org/images/nfb/publications/bm/bm17/bm1704/bm170402.htm>
7. Silverman, A. M. (2015). The perils of playing blind: Problems with blindness simulation and a better way to teach about blindness. Journal of Blindness Innovation and Research. Available online: <https://nfb.org/images/nfb/publications/jbir/jbir15/jbir050201.html>
8. Olson, T. (2014, January). How Disability Simulations Promote Damaging Stereotypes. Braille Monitor. Available online: <https://nfb.org/images/nfb/publications/bm/bm14/bm1401/bm140107.htm>
9. Herbert, J. T. (2001, June 1). Simulation as a learning method to facilitate disability awareness. Journal of Experiential Education. Available online: <https://doi.org/10.1177/105382590002300102>
10. Grayson, E.; Marini, I. (1996). Simulated disability exercises and their impact on attitudes toward persons with disabilities. International Journal of Rehabilitation Research.
11. Pernice, R.; Lys, K. (1996). Interventions for attitude changes towards people with disabilities: how successful are they? International Journal of Rehabilitation Research.
12. Kappan, D. (1994). On simulating blindness. Educational Resource Information Center.
13. Hallenbeck, C. E. (1984). The trouble with simulation. AHSSPPEE Bulletin.

14. Glazzard, P. (1979). Simulation of handicaps as a teaching strategy for preservice and inservice training. Teaching Exceptional Children.
15. Wilson, E.D.; Alcorn, D. (1969). Disability Simulation and Development of Attitudes Toward the Exceptional. The Journal of Special Education.

Resources to immerse yourself in disability culture

16. University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Disability Allyship Resources. Available online: <https://www.disability.illinois.edu/disability-allyship-resources>
17. University of Arizona. Disability Awareness and Simulation Activities. Available online: <http://drc.arizona.edu/outreach-education/disability-awareness-and-simulation-activities>